

Michelle has served on the Campus Services Engagement committee since the beginning and finds new ways to add value every single month. She is one of the most creative people I've worked with and she always finds a way to make things more fun for everyone involved. This past month, Michelle took on the task of putting together invitations and a slide deck for the Campus Services New Year Celebration with a totally tubular 80s theme! She went above and beyond to make sure the meeting ran smoothly and after, she coordinated the voting video and form for all the participants in the 80s costume contest. She always steps up whenever we need a volunteer or help – she's consistently amazing in delivering every single time too. We are incredibly grateful for you, Michelle!

Michelle Graff, Senior Campus Operations Specialist, Central Valley Campus

As the Central Valley campus wraps up an amazing fiscal year that was filled with anxiety, change, and pandemics, I can only think of one individual who remains a consistent, uplifting change agent, who brings teams together with ongoing culture building activities and a steadfast ability to keep herself and others organized and on track. This individual's abilities have been tapped into and, unknowingly to most, those resources show up as valuable assets to departments that spread from Campus Services to Enrollment. She does not treat others as she would like to be treated, but instead has the ability to treat others as they wish to be treated and is a shining example of the University Core Values.

Being Brave; coaching up, sideways and down, Honest; telling it like it is with compassion and integrity, and Focused; identifying the needs of individuals and teams equally and passionately. Thank you, Michelle Graff, for your continued dedication to the Central Valley Campus AND Campus Services!

Michelle is incredibly hard working and focused on delivering exceptional products in every project she undertakes. She recently took the lead on mastering a new software program in order to create visual representations of the wonderful things happening in Campus Services. She tackled this project with very little direction while somehow managing to keep a smile on her face! She brings a can-do attitude to every project along with top-notch collaboration skills. Thanks for being a great teammate, Michelle!

Michelle Graff, Senior University Resource Specialist, Central Valley

Have you ever worked with someone that clearly understands the vision of every project and is that person that has the ability to take that vision from concept to pavement? Year after Year, time after time, event after event, special request after special request, Michelle Graff steps up and delivers, even willing to hit the pavement and represent the University at events. Recently, Michelle was behind the scenes organizing a massive Nursing Week and Police Week undertaking, represented UOPX at CMC heart hospital nursing week event, created the PhoenixSafe instruction one sheeter, manages WSG event calendar, organizes the social media posts, and <insert the rest of the CVAL list here>. Oh, wait, there's more. Have you ever joined in on one of the Campus Service activities? Yeah, Michelle is involved with those too. Michelle is truly one that wears many hats and wears them well.

When you work with someone for so long and they are so good at what they do, require little direction, have passion and integrity, and you can trust them to get the job done and see the vision, it becomes all too easy to overlook how valuable that person is. For the Central Valley campus, this person is Michelle Graff. There is not enough space to describe the millions of activities that Michelle is involved in, because she does it all. She is the lead Ethics and Commencement organizer, Compliance liaison, budget verifier, arranges every special activity, leads our social media team, promotional material order queen, campus calendar monitor, voices valued chief, is involved in strategy and planning, attends events, covers the front desk when needed, travels to other learning centers for events, and makes sure we have all supplies, compliant marketing, and even catering...well except that one time. Michelle you play the role of that should simply be titled everything. Thank you for keeping me sane and the wheels of this campus greased.

Michelle Graff is deserving of recognition every month, week, and day. She consistently leads campus projects while maintaining lead roles in social media, ethics and compliance, and NMI nurturing. Michelle typically has her hand in all that occurs within all three learning centers and is regularly asked to be part of special committees. Michelle is a corner stone of the Central Valley Campus!
